DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-20 have been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5           The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

10           (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

15           Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Inala, U.S. Patent No. 6,199,077.

20           As per claims 1,8, and 14, the discloses a computer-implemented method comprising the following limitations which are met by Inala:

a) receiving a request to login into an account on a web site, wherein the login is to include a traversal of a number of web pages (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2);

b) retrieving instructions for logging into the web site (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2);

25           c) retrieving authentication data for logging into the web site (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2);

d) generating at least one integrated instruction based on the authentication data and the instructions for logging into the web site (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2);

e) logging into the web site based on the at least one integrated instruction, independent of user interaction subsequent to the receipt of the request (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2).

Art Unit: 2137

As per claims 2,11, and 15, the applicant discloses the method of claims 1,8, and 14, which are met by Inala, with the following limitation which is also met by Inala:

Wherein the instructions for logging into the web site are used for at least two different users (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2).

As per claims 3,13, and 16, the applicant discloses the method of claims 1,8, and 14, which are met by Inala, with the following limitation which is also met by Inala:

Wherein the request to login to the web site is from a user and wherein the authentication data comprises a set of credentials associated with the user (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2).

Wherein the request is received based on selection of a hyperlink that is displayed on a web page, the web page to display hyperlinks for a number of accounts across a number of different web sites (Col 5, lines 50-65; Fig 2).

As per claims 5-6,9-10, and 18-19, the applicant discloses the computer-implemented method of claims 1,8, and 14, which are met by Inala, with the following limitation which is also met by Inala:

Wherein the instructions are stored in an instruction set file associated with the web site, wherein the logging into the web site comprises transmitting the at least one integrated instruction in an order stored in the instruction set file until the login into the account is complete (Col 5, lines 50-65).

Wherein the generating of the at least one integrated instruction based on the authentication data comprises replacing, within the at least one integrated instruction, generic variable names associated with a set of credentials that comprises the authentication data for the account (Col 5, lines 50-65).
